BEAM is a comprehensive early-intervention treatment program for mood disorders with psychotic features. Developed based on the (re)MIND® model, BEAM uses evidence-based practices to support individuals and their families in realizing their full potential.

To be eligible for the BEAM program, participants must:

- Be a San Mateo County resident (regardless of insurance status)
- Have began experiencing signs and symptoms of severe mood disorder within the past two years
- Be 14-35 years old

BEAM is a program of Felton Institute.

BEAM is committed to transforming the treatment and perception of severe mood disorders in their early stages. BEAM provides evidence-based and culturally responsive assessment, diagnosis and treatment interventions. With BEAM young people can learn skills to manage the ups and downs of severe mood changes.

If you or someone you know might benefit from BEAM, check us out at feltonearlypsychosis.org or call (650) 458-0026 for information or referral.
